MAWSS Plant Wins Excellence Award

The Clifton C. Williams Wastewater Treatment Plant operated by Mobile Area Water & Sewer System (MAWSS) was recognized with the Wastewater Treatment Plant Excellence Award by Alabama's Water Environment Association (AWEA) during their 35th Annual Technical Conference held April 15-18, at Orange Beach. Mike Sims, Chief Treatment Plant Operator and Suzanne Lindblom, Lab Manager for MAWSS, accepted the Award that recognized the facility for professional operations and continued permit compliance.

The Williams Plant competed for the honor against other facilities that treat more than 10 million gallons of wastewater a day. Operations and staff were evaluated during an on-site visit. AWEA is Alabama's member association of the Water Environment Federation, a not-for-profit technical and educational organization representing water quality professionals around the world.
